6 It does not seem clear whether under proviso (a) to section 59 of the Municipal Regulation, exemption from payment of Municipal taxes other than the special sanitary cess and the water rate can be claimed in respect of all buildings and lands belonging to the Palace. What the proviso lays down is that except with the express consent of Govt., no tax other than the taxes referred to above shall be leviable in respect of any building or part of a building set apart for the occupation of His Highness the Maharaja or in respect of any vehicle, animal or other property belonging to His Highness the Maharaja.

7. Two phrases are used in describing the properties exempted:— (1) "Set apart for the occupation of His Highness the Maharaja" in the case of buildings and (2) "Belonging to

His Highness the Maharaja" in the case of vehicle, animal or other property. These two phrases cannot be synonymous with one another. If they were, the phrase "Set apart for the occupation of His Highness the Maharaja" might well have been omitted in the proviso. So it seems evident that all buildings belonging to the Palace are not exempted under the proviso but only those set apart for the occupation of His Highness the Maharaja or in other words for the residence of His Highness the Maharaja.

(b) Buildings and lands belonging to the Palace not set apart as above cannot be deemed as being included in "other property" which follows the words vehicles and animals in the proviso. Under the ordinary and well understood rule of interpretation, "a general word which follows particular and specific words of the same nature as itself takes its meaning from them and is presumed to be restricted to the same genus as those words; or, in other words as comprehending only things of the same kind as those ~~desi~~ designated by them". Thus in the expression "In respect of any vehicle, animal or other property, other property must be taken to mean property ejusdem generis with vehicles and animals which are moveable property and cannot be taken to include buildings and lands which are immovable property.

Maxwell P. 469

10. In the above view, it seems that no exemption from payment of municipal taxes can be claimed under Proviso (a) to Section 59 of the Municipal Regulation in respect of buildings and lands belonging to the Palace which are not set apart for the occupation of His Highness the Maharaja
